GOP FIGHT FOR DELEGATES OPENS

Wage-Price Controls Law Is Signed But Rapped By President Truman

Curbs To Last For 10 Months

Legislators Say Inflation On Ebb

WASHINGTON, July 1—(P)—President Truman said Tuesday the new economic controls law "weakens our ability to hold down prices and stabilize our economy."

Truman scolded Congress for not giving him the stronger powers he asked and lashed particularly at provisions limiting the Wage Stabilization Board to advisory powers in the future.

The change as to the wage board, Truman said, "destroys the existing system without providing any substitute."

In this respect, he said "the Congress has opened a dangerous gap in the mobilization program."

Truman got out a 1,200-word statement of his views on the new law, but at no point did he mention a provision requesting him to invoke the Taft-Hartley act in an effort to end the steel strike.

THE NEW LAW continued for 10 months powers to curb wages, prices, and rents and to allocate scarce materials.

But some of these powers are whittled down instead of strengthened as Truman had asked. He also had requested a two-year extension of controls instead of the 10 months Congress voted.

Truman signed the bill Monday and it is now law as the old controls law expired Monday midnight.

The Office of Price Stabilization, still studying the legislation, withheld formal comment. One OPS chieftain said, however:

"Every change in the act is calculated to raise prices substantially."

Legislators who voted for the bill contend inflationary pressures are slackening, making tight controls unnecessary. The House originally voted to end all price controls, in effect, but this was dropped by a Senate-House conference which worked out the compromise finally accepted.

The new law keeps the lid on prices and wages generally for the next 10 months, until April 30, 1953. It continues authority for allocating scarce materials for a full year, until June 30, 1953.

FEDERAL RENT controls will last three months, until Sept. 30, except in areas certified as critically in need of defense housing or those in which local authorities request their continuance.

Dropped from price control are processed fruits and vegetables—frozen, canned and so on. OPS officials complained this would bite into the housewife's food budget, much of which they said went for such items.

Boiler Blast Kills Woman, Injures 17

SALEM, July 1—(P)—A boiler blew up in an egg processing plant in Columbiana Tuesday, killing one woman outright and sending 17 other employees to Salem City Hospital.

Persons at the scene said they thought another employee was killed but the body could not be found. The dead woman was Mrs. Phyllis Howell, 30, of Columbiana.

The explosion—at the Northeast Ohio Poultry Association plant in Columbiana—occurred next to a room where women employees were taking their morning rest period.

Its force set loose ammonia gas from the plant cooling system, which filled the plant and caused most of the casualties. Injuries of many of the 17 patients—most of them women—were light.

Of the 17 patients, three were described as in poor condition from explosion injuries, burns and from inhaling the poison gas.

The hospital said Miss Anna Mankin, 19, of East Palestine, was not expected to live.

The other two in poor condition were Thomas Renfrow of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Ida C. Seneca of North Lima.

143-Wing Air Force In 1955 Assured

Senate Votes $46 Billions For U. S. Military Strength

WASHINGTON, July 1—(P)—The U. S. Senate Monday night approved a $46,403,000,000 budget to run the armed forces for the fiscal year starting Tuesday, nearly $5 billion less than President Truman asked.

The measure, the largest money bill before Congress this year, carried a provision Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said assured the Air Force it could finance a buildup to 143 wings by mid-1955. The present Air Force is a little over 90 wings.

The final total for the military services will have to be worked out in conference with the House, which voted $46,207,000,000. The administration had requested $51,390,000,000.

In approving the armed forces budget on a 66-0 roll call vote, the Senate completed its version of all money legislation except a $10 billion supplementary fund now before the appropriations committee.

A vote on this is expected Thursday.

HOWEVER, both the Senate and House will have to reconsider eight appropriations bills—in addition to the military budget—which are in conference committees.

Congress has sent only one money measure to the President but legislators hope to clear all 11 bills before Saturday, a target date they've set for adjournment in order to attend the national political conventions this month.

A major difference between the Senate and House versions of the armed services budget is in the manner of laying out Air Force funds.

The Senate voted $21,122,361,700 and the House $20,752,412,912, compared with $22,570,289,770 the President asked. The House voted its funds all in cash but the Senate stipulated that $13,122,361,700 would be in cash and eight million in contract authority.

This authority permits contracts to be made with the assurance that Congress will vote to pay the bills later.

The Senate approved the contract authority proposed by O'Mahoney by a 79-0 vote but it was not explained how this, rather than cash, would help speed the Air Force buildup.

The Senate voted $12,165,080,000 for the Army and $12,099,574,142 for the Navy.

The House had voted $12,244,400,000 and $12,815,152,142. Truman had requested $14,380,622,000 for the Army and $13,958,246,000 for the Navy.

THE SENATE bill does not include a House provision—opposed by the administration—to place a $46 billion lid on spending for the fiscal year, six billion below the planned figure.

Spending applies to new appropriations plus money from past appropriations for such things as planes and ships which take longer than a year to build. Pentagon officials said a ceiling on spending would disrupt the plans for a military buildup.

The Senate approved by voice vote an amendment—turned down by the House—to give military men in Korea $45 a month in combat pay. It would go to those who have been under actual enemy fire.

The Senate, by a standing vote, rejected a proposal by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) to reduce special hazard pay for fliers and submariners to $50 a month for enlisted men and $100 a month for officers. The pay is based on a sliding scale, with some officers getting as much as $210 extra.

Third Class Mail Rates Increase

WASHINGTON, July 1—(P)—Users of the bulk third-class mailing privilege got a $30 million-a-year hike in their postal charges Tuesday.

The long-standing minimum charge of 1 cent per piece went up to 1½ cents per piece—another of the increases authorized by Congress last year to help wipe out the recurring postal deficit.

Officer Charles Smith Suspended From City Police Force 15 Days

Circleville policeman Charles Smith of 207½ West Main street is to be suspended from the force for 15 days effective Thursday.

The officer was suspended from duty by Safety Director C. O. Leist, who accused Smith of "drunkenness on duty and conduct unbecoming an officer."

Leist said the matter is expected to be reviewed by the city civil service commission.

The safety director made the move to suspend Smith after a series of adventures last Saturday in which the accused officer was involved.

Leist said witnesses told him the

$5 Billion Deficit Seen

U.S. Spending Bill Now Being Tallied

WASHINGTON, July 1—(P)—The federal budget deficit for fiscal 1952 appears to be about $3 billion, or 38 per cent less than President Truman predicted.

This was indicated as Treasury bookkeepers worked to get together the final figures for the period which ended Monday.

With only a couple of days' government accounts to be tallied, prospects were for an outcome about like this, in round figures: spending, $67 billion; income $62 billion; deficit, $5 billion.

The President estimated last January the deficit would be $8.2 billion, but his spending figure of $70.9 billion has proved a big over-estimate, and his revenue figure of $62.7 billion a bit over optimistic.

WHILE A $5 billion deficit for fiscal 1952 would constitute a big improvement over the President's estimates, it would nevertheless reflect an $8½ billion decline from fiscal 1951, which ended in a budget surplus of $3½ billion.

In the year just closed, budget outlays jumped about 50 per cent higher than in the preceding year. Where the President went wrong was in expecting spending to zoom 57 per cent as a result of the expanding defense program.

On revenues, the President's estimate came closer. Tax receipts, boosted by rate hikes and new levies, climbed about 29 per cent above fiscal 1951. Truman forecast an increase of about 30 per cent.

The main reason spending fell below the Truman estimate was that planes and other equipment ordered for the U. S. armed forces and foreign countries in the mutual security program were not delivered by June 30 in the quantities anticipated.

The money for these undelivered items is obligated, meaning contracts or purchase orders have been let, but the money doesn't count in the budget as spent until the goods are paid for.

NEW PATTON M-48 medium tanks are photographed for the first time rolling off the assembly line at the Chrysler tank plant in Newark, Del. First tanks were delivered to the Army last April 11.

Yes, It Could Be Lots Worse! 109 In 1936, For Example

Don't look at that thermometer now, but maybe the worst is yet to come!

In mid-July 16 years ago, Circleville's official temperature boiled up to 109 on the crest of a nationwide heat blast that made the current hot spell strictly second class.

Belief that last Sunday's 100.7 degrees set an all-time high for the city was shattered by Mrs. Freda Schumm, of 114 South Washington street, who has saved a scrapbook story of the real sizzler.

SHE POINTED OUT that on Wednesday, July 15, 1936, The Herald told how "all existing Circleville heat records" withered away the preceding day when the mercury began to burst through the top at 109 degrees.

OFFICIAL READING that blistering afternoon was on the government thermometer maintained by Dr. H. R. Clarke, who said it was certainly the worst he had noted in 40 years of weather observing.

After climbing to the daytime 109, the mercury subsided from its record rampage—but not far. Even the overnight low was 82!

And, if Circleville currently is having a run of consecutive days above the 90-degree level, take heart, cool off and beware of the days ahead. In 1936, that record-breaking Tuesday was the seventh

Red Trucers Use Same Old Propaganda

MUNSA, July 1—(P)—The Communists Tuesday accused the UN Command of "seeking pretexts for creating new incidents" as true negotiators returned to Panmunjom following a three-day Allied-imposed recess.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il lambasted the UN for insisting that the Reds pinpoint the location of four prison camps in North Korea. His charge was included in a letter handed to Allied liaison officers a few minutes before negotiators began another futile attempt to break the long armistice deadlock.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., told the Reds "if the prisoner of war issue is settled, an armistice will result without delay."

He pointed out that the Allied draft on prisoner exchange reads that "all prisoners of war held in the custody of each side" will be released, and an exchange made according to "lists which have been checked" by each side.

Presumably captured Reds who refused to go home would not be included on the list turned over to the Communists for checking.

Nam promptly rejected Harrison's suggestion and insisted that all North Korean and Chinese prisoners of war be returned. He reiterated that the only way to reach an armistice is for the Allies to accept the Communist proposal of May 2 which calls for the repatriation of all military prisoners.

straight day the city had readings over 100!

Nor was there anything different at that time about southern Ohio temperatures. The nation was reeling with readings around and above 100!

On the day of Circleville's record, for example, the mercury hit 112 at Rockford and Peoria, Ill., and a number of other cities had it nearly as rough.

It may not mean anything for those battling the current hot spell, but a "cool wave" from the west was promised Circleville after the record high in 1936.

And anyway, that wasn't until after the middle of July!

Woman Given 5-Year Term For Burglary

CARSON CITY, Nev., July 1—(P)—Mrs. Jeanne d'Arc Michaud, 36-year-old self-styled brains of the $1½ million Redfield burglary, was sentenced to five years in prison by Federal Judge Roger Foley Monday.

Mrs. Michaud probably will be sent to the federal reformatory for women at Balderson, W. Va. She will become eligible for parole after serving 20 months.

Judge Foley also sentenced two others involved in the bizarre burglary of La Vere Redfield's Reno mansion in February.

Leona Mee Girdan, 40, Reno cocktail waitress, convicted of transporting $11,000 of the loot across state lines, was sentenced to a year and a day.

Benton Henry Robinson, 63, a dude ranch handyman and Mrs. Michaud's contact with the underworld, was sentenced to four years. He pleaded guilty.

Three others are awaiting trial. They are Andreis Young, 46, John Trillig, 37, and Frank Sorrentino, 36, all of Milwaukee, Wis.

Murder-Suicide Ends Long Tiff

AKRON, July 1—(P)—A long domestic quarrel ended Monday when a truck driver shot his wife to death in a street and fatally wounded himself.

Witnesses said Mrs. Mildred M. Fracche, 39, was felled by a bullet as she ran up the street to meet her husband, Sunday, 48. He died shortly after admission to City Hospital. The woman had spent the weekend with a brother in Newcomerstown and was meeting her husband at his request, police said.

Chaplain Emeritus Of House Is Dead

WASHINGTON, July 1—(P)—Dr. James S. Montgomery, 89, chaplain emeritus of the House of Representatives, died Monday.

A native of Mt. Carmel, Ind., he served pastorates in Toledo and Minneapolis before coming to Washington in 1911.

Committee Meets, Shuns TV Cameras

72 Contested Votes Loom Large In Final Nomination Ballot

CHICAGO, July 1—(P)—The first skirmish for keeps in the battle for Republican presidential nomination—which of 72 rival delegates to seat—got underway in this convention city Tuesday.

The protagonists are the backers of the men who have the bulk of pre-convention delegate strength, Ohio Sen. Robert Taft and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

The Associated Press tabulation, based on avowed and conceded alignments for the first ballot, shows 475 delegates favor Taft and 409 prefer Eisenhower. Nomination requires one more than half of the total—644.

Thus, 72 convention votes loom large in such a close battle.

The GOP National Committee, after huddling with Taft and Eisenhower people on procedure Monday, opened the hearings.

The decision, whichever way it goes, undoubtedly will be appealed through channels—the Convention Credentials Committee, then the convention itself.

THE NATIONAL Committee walked out on television cameras as it took up the question of deciding contests between rival delegations.

Meeting nearly a half-hour late, the 106-member national committee suddenly shifted its meeting place from a third-floor ballroom to a second-floor room at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, leaving TV lights blazing and TV cameras with nothing to photograph.

Convention Sergeant-at-Arms Charles Hacker roared out the announcement of the change of plans.

"Cameras and microphones will not be admitted until there is a decision by the committee," he shouted above the din that filled the room.

Other officials said it was possible the national committee itself would change its minds and allow telecasting.

Obviously, though, those running the meeting didn't want to argue about the television question with the debate itself being elevated.

Some of Taft's supporters had been cool to televising the wrangling over disputed delegates, although Taft himself Monday abandoned his earlier opposition and said TV would be all right with him if it was all right with the national committee which, incidentally, is dominated by Taft-backers.

EISENHOWER forces, for this obvious reason, strongly demanded the whole row be televised since the 72 delegate seats at stake could very well decide the contest between Taft and Eisenhower.

The first contest to come before the national committee for decision was that of Florida's 13-member delegation.

A "regular" delegation headed by C. C. Spades of St. Augustine and G. Harold Alexander of Ft. Myers turned up to defend its seat.

News Story Erroneous

In a recent news story printed by The Circleville Herald relative to a roundup of weekend arrests made by local law enforcement officers, it was erroneously said one man was fined for "drunken driving to the left of centerline."

That news article concerned Fred Racie, 58, of Columbus, who earlier had been involved in a minor accident north of Williamsport.

Following the accident, the Columbus man was fined in the court of Mayor Walter Heise, South Bloomfield, for driving to the left of centerline. The accusation for the minor offense resulted in a fine of $15 and costs.

In reporting the story, The Herald said that and no more. When the story appeared in print, however, the word "drunken" had inadvertently slipped into the story.

The Herald takes this opportunity to acknowledge its honest mistake and sincerely hope, the error did not cause the Columbus motorist undue embarrassment.

The error was not made in the newsroom, but in the composing room and was missed by the proof reader, who is required to read proof by copy, but apparently did not.

Kiwanis Clubbers Hear Reports From Committees During Session

Quarterly reports by committee chairmen were heard Monday evening during the regular meeting of the Cincinnati Kiwanis Club in the New Mecca dining room.

Report from the boys and girls committee indicated the progress of the Ted Lewis park program; and support of churches committee reported on the Kiwanis-sponsored Good Friday closing and distribution of church stamps.

The committee is also compiling a report of the church activities of members of all service organizations in Cincinnati.

Underprivileged children committee reported dental service to seven youngsters, medical service to six youngsters, a tonsillectomy and purchases of shoes and clothing.

It was also reported, the local club is working on the formation of a Kiwanis Key Club in a county school.

FIVE BOYS have been selected by Kiwanis members to attend Big Brothers Camp near South Bloomingville July 3 through 16. They are Donald Stonerock, William Cramblit, James Hamilton, Aaron Walden and Ralph Myers. The program will include the selection of five more boys from the park program to attend camp sessions beginning July 21.

Agriculture and conservation committee reported purchase of a trophy to be presented during the Pickaway County Fair for 4-H work, and the business and public affairs committee announced their cooperation with work on the city charter.

A report from the public relations committee showed Kiwanis road signs have been brought up to date, auto windshield emblems were distributed and advertisements were made of the Cancer Fund.

Guest for the meeting was Dr. Edward Sudlow of San Fernando, Calif. A movie on Children's Safety Patrol was presented by Ned Hardin.

Sgt. Fred S. VanAllen of the State Highway Patrol will be the guest speaker for the meeting next Monday. He will lecture and show slides on auto safety.

Public Reminded On Polio Season

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County health commissioner, reminded the public Tuesday that this is the time of year for special precautions against polio.

"Particular care should be taken by everyone," he said, "even though Pickaway County didn't have a single reported case last year."

Dr. Blackburn called attention to recent discussions in medical circles on a possible link between immunizations and polio. "No link has been established between immunizations for other diseases and polio," he said, "and there should be no delay in any individual plans for immunizations." Medical authorities for some time have studied a possible connection between "shots" given for various reasons and the polio reaction.

Grambo Released To Columbus PD

Raymond Grambo, 34, of Columbus, a prisoner in Pickaway County jail for the last eight months, has been released to Columbus police department.

Grambo was held here on indictments of larceny and breaking and entering. Columbus police reportedly have an accusation of robbery against him.

Stevenson Seen Shifting Attitude

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The Democratic presidential nomination race, which hits the finish line at the party's convention July 21, was stirred Tuesday as new talk was set off by Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, who had expressed no desire to seek the nomination this year.

Stevenson, who shifted to a wait-and-see attitude last week, told a news conference Monday he would not foster a move to draft him, but that if one should develop he would decide then whether to accept or reject it.

lection by Florida's state GOP committee last February.

And a self-described "grass roots" delegation, waving a Florida state flag, marched in to contest the Spades-Alexander groups right to speak for Florida Republicans.

The rival delegation is publicly uncommitted, but in a statement handed out today its members accepted the Taft forces of "steam-roller" tactics.

In the developing round of charges and counter-charges, the state committee-picked delegation said of itself:

"The Spades-Alexander delegation is striving to erect a two-party system in Florida and is succeeding except in those few counties in which the Garrison faction is sabotaging the Republican Party in order to make a 'power grab.'"

IN ANOTHER prelude to the opening of the convention next Monday, Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado emerged as chairman of the subcommittee which will draft the party's foreign policy platform.

This plank shaped up as probably the most troublesome of all for the 104-member resolutions committee of the GOP national convention since Taft and Eisenhower have expressed differences over how best to handle the conduct of this country's dealings in foreign affairs.

At Millikin's suggestion, the committee adopted a resolution declaring the proceedings of the closed sessions of both the subcommittees and the full committee will be "strictly confidential."

The chairman cautioned members against leaking any information to outsiders "for publication." Millikin named the following as chairmen of the various subcommittees:

National defense — Joseph R. Farington of Hawaii.

Agriculture — Harold McKinley of Iowa.

Civil Rights — Mrs. Ada M. Gleser of Maine.

Communism and corruption — Merrill K. Davis of Utah.

Steel Union Continuing To Seek Accord

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—The CIO United Steelworkers plugged away Tuesday at the steel industry's small companies while top producers continued to ignore the union's demands for settlement of the 30-day steel strike.

So far the union has come to terms with 31 steel-producing firms, allowing more than 50,000 to resume work. The bulk of the union membership—about 600,000—is still waiting for a new contract.

Latest to sign is Harrisburg (Pa.) Steel Corp., which employs 1,250 workers. The plant will resume production immediately.

The firm signed a pact Monday night calling for a wage increase of approximately 15 cents an hour, modified union shop, six paid holidays and three weeks vacation annually for 15 years service.

The modified union shop means new employees must join the union but can withdraw between their 20th and 30th day of employment.

MEANWHILE, leaders of the union are meeting with other small companies across the nation but the sessions are closely guarded secrets. None of the companies has been identified.

One big reason for the secrecy is that the steelworker's chief, Philip Murray, fears the big producers will bring pressure to bear on the smaller firms and block possible agreements.

The big companies, such as U. S. Steel Corp., the nation's top producer, are bitterly opposed to the union shop issue. It was one of the recommendations the Wage Stabilization Board made when it attempted to avert the costly strike.

4 Will Leave For August Draft Quota

Four men are to be inducted from Pickaway County to meet August draft quota.

State selective service officials have announced a statewide August quota of 1,446.

Registrants picked for this call will be 20 years old at time of induction unless they are volunteers or delinquents. The call will include married men without children.

Five men are to be inducted under a call scheduled for July 24.

INDUCTED INTO the service last Tuesday were David C. Six of 215 East Temple street, Washington C.H., and Leonard Austin Davis of Circleville Route 4.

William B. Spradlin of Orient Route 1 and Vernon E. Wood of Williamsport Route 1 were inducted under the county's May call.

Two-Car Crash Injures Four

Four persons were injured at about 6:40 p. m. Monday in a two-car crash at Routes 56 and 104, west of Circleville.

The accident happened when an auto operated by Donald Holcomb, 28, of London, and an auto operated by Silvia Kiener, 47, of Columbus, met in the intersection.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the Kiener auto failed to stop for a stop sign, moving into the path of the Holcomb auto. The woman driver later was fined $10 and costs in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for failure to yield the right of way.

Walnut Township Hires Teacher For 2nd Grade

Betty Louise Hill, 21, of Sandyville, W. Va., was hired as a teacher Monday by Walnut Township board of education.

Miss Hill, who will graduate from Glenville college in West Virginia later this month, was employed to teach second grade.

She is to replace Mrs. Helen Styers, of Circleville, who recently accepted a teaching position in Washington Township school.

Following graduation from Ripley, W. Va., high school in 1948, Miss Hill taught for one year at Pleasant View School in Millwood, W. Va. Then, after returning to college for a year, she taught during the 1951-52 term at Cavin Fork School in Belleville, W. Va.

THE QUILTING PARTY

The serious work of providing warm bed covering for cold winter nights required long hours of careful work for our ancestors. The neighborhood women grouped themselves around a large table and painstakingly fastened the covering of the quilt to the lining and its soft layer of cotton padding.

It is characteristic of Americans that they do things of their own free will because they can see the personal value of their work. At the quilting party, each lady increased her skill with each blanket. The same is true at this bank. Each financial transaction increases our fund of experience and knowledge. We are thus able to give sound help and counsel that is of great practical value in solving other financial problems.

Saving Of Manpower Is Big Problem For Government Agency

WASHINGTON, July 1.—One of the Agriculture Department's big jobs is to teach Mother Nature how to help save manpower.

Power machinery and the heavy loss of farm workers to city jobs and the armed forces is putting a special premium on breeding plants which will make harvesting tasks easier.

Breeders have developed, for example, a variety of sugar cane that sheds its leaves naturally. This eliminates the need of stripping off leaves by hand before the cane can be harvested.

Researchers are working on the problem of developing plants and trees that will hold their fruit and seeds more firmly so they will be more suitable for mechanical harvesting.

Others are working on new methods of controlling plant diseases. Officials say the use of chemicals for systematic control of such diseases is an increasing possibility.

THEY SAY THERE is growing evidence that certain antibiotics or chemical substances can be absorbed by plant tissues.

Vast new possibilities are indicated for control of weeds and other plants. The selectivity of some of the newer chemical compounds is amazing. This year scientists have tested one new compound that takes wild oats out of wheat and another that controls crabgrass and ryegrass in wheat.

In the case of cotton, research is being carried on for development of plants better suited for mechanical harvest, particularly to reduce the trash content of machine-picked cotton. It has been found that plants with smoother leaves will give a cleaner harvest.

Furthermore, there is need for plants that bear their bolls at a uniform height for mechanical picking.

Perhaps the biggest research job in agriculture is to keep ahead of new diseases. The best way to do this, scientists say, is to develop disease-resistant type. New diseases keep bobbing up. As a consequence, the plant breeder must be a jump ahead.

The department sends experts to all parts of the world to study plant diseases so the agency may be ready to act when and if the diseases gets to this country.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Girls aren't the only ones who have date problems. Here's a boy with a "triangle" on his mind. He writes:

"I am 19 and I am very fond of a girl, although I have never told her so. The reason she doesn't realize I am crazy about her is that she has been trying to "fix me up" with her best friend who has been trying to hook me for some time. She has been very friendly toward me, and I think she is afraid of hurting her girl friend, who she thinks has first claim on me.

"I have not given her girl friend any reason to believe that I am at all interested in her, but she still keeps trying. What can I do?"
Ans.—The answer seems e a s y.

Since you haven't given the girl's friend any reason to believe you are interested in her, since you have no "going steady" agreement with her, you're completely free to ask the girl you really like for a date.

You both like each other. It would be too bad to miss the fun and friendship you two could have just for the sake of a friendship that doesn't exist between you and the girl "who keeps trying."

date with the girl you like. Then you two will be happy and it will be kinder to let the other girl know in this way exactly how you feel and where she stands. Then she can turn her date-making attention elsewhere. Fair enough!

More than 5,714,000 persons in the United States are employed in manufacturing, selling, servicing and operating motor trucks—equivalent to one out of every 11 workers.

May Death Toll Sets New Mark

CHICAGO, July 1.—The nation's highway death toll for May shot up to 3,160—the highest May figure on record, the National Safety Council reports.

The month's toll was a 12 per cent increase over May in 1951 and an increase of 94 deaths over the previous high for May—3,066 in 1937.

By ANNE VERITY

EAVEY'S is loaded with supplies for the Fourth of July weekend!

Frankly, when I started my shopping trip for the Fourth weekend, I forgot my shopping list. But not only did I get everything I had written down, but the things I had forgotten to list as well. Just wait until you see the shelves loaded down with every imaginable item at EAVEY'S SUPER MARKET. You won't need a shopping list either. Take your time and stroll down the aisles, and you will get everything you need for the long weekend coming up.

With the Fourth falling on Friday, that means three days of family (and guests, in all probability) eating, not only the regular three meals per day, but several in-between snacks as well. For goodness' sake don't forget to stock up on bread and rolls from EAVEY'S Bakery Department. They're as fresh they will keep, and it's better to have them on hand than to try to find a store open on the Fourth.

You will need plenty of pickles and olives too. And of course salad dressing, mustard and lunchmeat for snacks. That reminds me, for that big picnic you will no doubt have, the feature this week in the Meat Department will be Frying Chickens and Hams, either one of which is perfect. The low prices are attractive, too!

This "Boss of the Family" (as our son teasingly calls his father) will no doubt have the best intention in the world of helping you with your picnic and mealtime preparations. But if he is like my husband, right at the crucial moment the baseball game going on in the side yard needs an umpire, or an argument about croquet rules demands his attention, and anyway, he works hard all year and needs a carefree vacation in the sun. In other words, your best bet is to make plans that don't require his attention.

Have a nice weekend, but be sure and don't work too hard. Above all, if you and your family drive anywhere, tell father to take it easy on the accelerator. Happy Fourth of July!

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

Over the years I have tried to explain that stuttering usually begins or continues because of emotional strains and stresses.

Among the emotional disturbances a child may have are his feelings of insecurity, feelings that he is not loved as much as he would like to be, or not loved as much as a brother or sister.

In the following letter we see jealousy in a girl, three, of her baby brother is a big contributor to stuttering by her.

"Dear Dr. Myers: Your recent article on 'Stuttering' has helped us a great deal, though we would like to have more help. Our daughter is three and her brother twenty months. Up until a few months ago Johnny was just a baby and didn't do anything very spectacular. Recently he has begun to talk a little and gets very active in many ways, in fact, so much so that his sister feels a little left out.

"In spite of her love for Johnny she resents his being so cute and original in his actions. At first I told her that Johnny is just a baby, so right away she wanted to be a baby and do everything the way he does, even to having the bottle again and talking like he does, and many other petty things.

"It was at this time that I noticed her stuttering a little. Now she has a great deal of trouble talking, seems to cry at the least annoyance and is very sensitive."

MY PERSONAL reply in substance: It is apparent that your cunning baby is the major cause of his big sister's stuttering. You parents and your adult friends need to find ways of observing this baby's antics and exploits so objectively as to express no amazement over them. This will require a lot of self-discipline by you and by Dad.

On the other hand, both of you need to gain more satisfaction over the less dramatic but no less real and wonderful development of the older child. The fact she wants to be like her baby brother clearly shows she supposes this would bring her such attention and approval as he gets.

Accede occasionally, but without comment, to these whims of hers, knowing this to be only a temporary expedient, until you find ways to help her feel happy that she is so big and can do so much because she is.

Both of you, especially Dad, should read a great deal to her and help her make and do things. Enlist some of your relatives and friends in these directions.

It's very important that you discipline the baby not to appropriate and mess up her things. Spank him on his bare thighs if necessary to this end, substituting chair-sitting as soon as he will stay where put.

Also help her win some playmates of her age; him, too, a little later. Cuddle her often. Answer kindly all her questions. Cultivate a tender voice and affectionate smiles toward her. Work on yourselves and the family for more serenity and less excitement.

Act as if you don't notice her stuttering. As you help her gain more emotional composure you can feel pretty sure the stuttering will disappear by-and-by.

Q. Now and then our daughter, 8, refers to some religious practice in a playmate's home she thinks queer. What should be our response then?

A. Tell her that her playmate may suppose that some of the religious ways of your daughter's home are queer; that if she grew up in her playmate's family she would believe and do about as they believe and do.

Q. Our son, six, not only has no fear during an electric storm but keeps no account of our warning him against the danger of being under or near a tree then.

A. Don't warn him. Just command him decisively.

BRaille

A CENTURY after his demise the body of Louis Braille now fittingly reposes in the Pantheon at Paris, final resting place of France's most honored dead. Blind himself from the age of three, he invented the present system of printing, whereby the fingers of the blind enable them without assistance to read and have access to a world from which hitherto their infirmity shut them out.

An American woman, Miss Helen Keller, herself both blind and deaf since childhood, but for most of her 70 years an indefatigable worker for the blind, was a speaker at the memorial exercises at the Sorbonne. In perfect, grammatical French she said the celebration marked "all the years in which the sightless have banished darkness with the inner light of knowledge."

Miss Keller pleaded in French, as she has always pleaded here, that where the capabilities of the blind have been proved, "they may be permitted to participate more fully in the activities of their seeing fellow men."

It would have rejoiced Braille's heart to know that in the procession through famous thoroughfares to the Pantheon, in which the white, tapping sticks of the sightless were so numerous, those who followed directly behind the Braille family were the boys and girls of the Institution for the Young Blind at Paris. For there he himself was a student in his boyhood and came to know the terrifying need his invention supplied.

EATING DIRT

AS IF THE federal government wasn't already concerning itself with enough matters which are none of its business it has taken on another program which is really one for the book. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is worrying about the Kansas wheat crop.

While Kansas farmers are happy over harvesting what may be a record crop Washington is getting ready to start a cleanup of the grain. If it shows signs of having been nibbled at by birds or insects, beetles or moths, it will be condemned for human food and sold for other purposes at a great reduction in price.

If wheat needs cleaning up now it needed it in past years. Presumably hungry people of the world have been eating a lot of dirt and didn't know it.

The remodeled White House has 21 bath rooms. This should facilitate government clean-ups when it gets a new occupant.

These Days

When Harry Truman is no longer President of the United States and, in the distant future, historians research his Administration, they will wonder at the depth of his dislike for Congress of which he used to be a member. It will also be puzzling to understand his bitter opposition to Congressional committees.

The McCarran Committee, for instance, has comported itself beyond criticism. It has prepared its cases with meticulous regard to the rights of individuals; it has avoided the charge of pillorying individuals for remote and insignificant errors; it has given the person under investigation every opportunity to state his case.

Yet, this committee, which was not investigating corruption in the Truman Administration but subversion in the United States, encountered as much opposition as the old Dies Committee did at the hands of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. What can the reason be, except that the President objects to anyone interfering with what he regards as his private affair, namely, the Government of the United States?

The Washington correspondent of the London "Economist" provides a curious overtone to this inquiry into the President's mind, for he, too, apparently disapproves of Senator McCarran and so tells his British audience. This is what he says:

"The Democratic Senator from Nevada, who is using his Senate Judiciary sub-committee on internal security to uncover what he terms 'this gigantic conspiracy,' is practicing a technique perfected by his somewhat more notorious Republican colleague from Wisconsin, Senator Joseph McCarthy. It is a technique which shocks many decent-minded Americans because it seeks to dress the committee hearings in something like the robes—or at the least the language—of a court of law and yet makes nonsense of the accepted practices of legal procedure.

"It is already abundantly clear that Senator McCarran and his committee intend, if they can, to bring about the jailing, on perjury charges, of Professor Owen Lattimore, of Johns-Hopkins University, and Mr. Joseph Barnes, well-known as a newspaperman.

"Both Professor Lattimore and Mr. Barnes were closely associated for a number of years before the war with the Institute of Pacific Relations, a body dedicated to the non-partisan study of the Far East."

True, this was written last Summer before the seven volumes of the record of the investigation into the Institute of Pacific Relations were published. This was written before the State Department refused to give Professor Lattimore a passport to travel abroad.

The intensity of the attack on the committee by this magazine is particularly interesting because it has generally reflected the views of the State Department except in instances when the British differ from Dean Acheson—which is not often.

It is impossible to believe that any man who is President of the United States would be sympathetic with a conspiracy to defeat the United States in Asia. Nothing has given the President more unpleasant days than his failure in China. Yet, he has not cooperated with any Congressional

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

ON MONDAY afternoon, April the seventeenth, Jerome Austen and his sister were having their tea beside the window with the medallions of German stained glass. Norah, her face wreathed in smiles, passed plates of delicate little sandwiches. Aby sat under the table, rising to scraps and morsels as a trout rises to a fly.

When Norah had gone Jerome said: "It's a relief, having that surly little brute out of the place." "Yes, it's cozy. If it weren't for the risk..." "No risk. Without the brace he'll be as spry as a cricket," said Jerome.

"I think it's so awful, having to pay him so much of our money," complained Hildreth. "How are you going to manage about forwarding money to him? The trustees mustn't know where he goes."

"My dear girl, I've had Gray's power of attorney since before the war."

"That's good. I think it was so silly of him to fly off like this in advance. Really he has no more nerve than poor Aby."

"He got on my nerves, all right. And out there when Gray died—why, when I put the thing up to him he jumped at it. Well, we're stuck with him, he's what we have to pay. And the worst of it is," said Jerome, laughing, "we can't even kill him; can't even wish him dead! Unless he has the decency to drown himself in mid-ocean. Forget him, he's gone."

"Was he absolutely sure that that boy had nobody to inquire after him, Jerry?"

"Yes, sure; the kid was a founding, and I asked him myself whether he'd taken a job anywhere between this and California. It's all right, Hil, just remember that all that was far away and a long time ago."

"Well, you're a genius," said Hildreth. "Getting Tom to consult the Gamadge man, for instance; all he could do was to tell us to go to the Missing Persons place. And now if Dr. Wolfman asks, or the servants talk, we'll be all right. We had an expert in. Where did that book of his ever come from, I wonder? It's quite new—I mean it came out long after Uncle died."

"Where does a book come from? It's a Cresson book; Rena may have had it given her as a perquisite."

"Did you find out who those Malcoms are?"

"Yes, he's some kind of a writer all right. It's not so funny, their taking her in; people will do anything for extra help these days."

"Oh, how fortunate we were."

"Fortunate to get rid of Tommy Bayles and his moods and his marriages. It was on the cards to humor him a little, but good Lord what types he picked."

"He didn't have much choice."

said Miss Austen, stretching back comfortably in her deep chair. "Took a lot of elimination to get just the right girls, and then how they turned out after all!"

"My dear child, they fell in love with him."

"Well, thank goodness that's over with."

The doorbell rang, and Aby whined. "Still misses her," said Hildreth. "Just so she hasn't come back for the rest of her clothes! I suppose we'll have to send them on eventually. Will you—"

"Oh, of course I will."

They relaxed, but after a minute she asked, looking towards the ante-room: "I wonder who that can be? Why doesn't Norah answer?"

Five people came directly into the library from the hall: a big weathered-looking man in a pin-stripe suit, a well-dressed business man type, and three in uniform—two men and a woman. These last waited just inside the doors; the two others came forward. Aby barked once, half-heartedly, confused by numbers.

"Jerome Austen and Hildreth Austen," the big man said, "I am an officer of the law, and this gentleman is from the district attorney's office. I have a warrant here for your arrest, and the charge at present is conspiracy with one Thomas Bayles to defraud the heirs of the Charles Gray Austen estate, and embezzlement of the estate funds over a period of three years and ten months. Bayles—"

Jerome had got to his feet; he was holding himself erect by gripping the back of his chair. Hildreth, crouching back as if to hide herself.

"That little rat—" Jerome's voice was only half audible. "He couldn't very well help himself, Austen," said the big man. "We took the brace off him and X-rayed his knee; and he's walking around as lively as anybody. Now we don't want any trouble at all. His squadron commander got in this morning, Gray Austen's is on the way, and we have all the proof we need of the impersonation without them or the rest of the evidence. We have a policewoman here to go up and help your sister get ready, and two men to do the same by you."

The policewoman came up and helped Hildreth Austen to her feet. Gamadge, Lieutenant Nordhall and Sergeant Ryder had watched proceedings from a distance; they were grouped modestly in the drawing room, whence they had a good view of the procession up the stairs. Norah was watching it too; she had come up from the basement to stand swaying against the banisters, her face yellowish in the dim light.

Nordhall addressed his companions briskly: "So that's that. Now we'd better get busy on the capital charge, and no time to lose."

He turned to the two men who were to take him to the car. "You're a decent sort of man," she said, "and a gentleman. You know what I'd like. You know anybody like me, that kept the same place thirty years, a place like this, wouldn't be in it with thieves."

"Then don't fight justice on their account," said Nordhall. "I'd help you if I could. It's dazed I am."

"That's the way to talk," said Nordhall. "Let's go down to the basement—that's the place we're interested in."

news behind

the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, July 1 — Senator William F. Knowland of California looks like a "natural" for the Republican vice-presidential nomination, whether the head of the ticket be Senator Taft or General Eisenhower. He appears to be the key piece in the puzzle of how to turn out the Democrats.

The handsome 44-year-old Oakland publisher has made an excellent record and impression on Capitol Hill. He is liked on both sides of the aisle. He is a hard worker and an effective speaker. He knows the Far West's problems—power, water, reclamation and conservation in general—as neither of the leading candidates do.

Indeed, a Knowland nomination is almost a Republican "must." Franklin D. Roosevelt's land-and-water program has almost converted this vast empire into Democratic terrain in national contests. Truman's share-the-wealth proposals appeal to elderly emigrants from Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas. Not even Governor Earl Warren, as Dewey's sidekick, could carry his own state four years ago.

Instead of trying to crack the "solid South," the GOP needs to recapture the West.

LEADER — Knowland's great showing in the recent senatorial primaries, when he won both Republican and Democratic nominations, has removed him from the protective shadow of Governor Warren, his original sponsor. He will be a leader in his own right at Chicago.

Both Bob and Ike deny that they seek to seduce Knowland in the hope of making a deal for California's 70 delegates, now pledged to Warren. But since this big batch could easily determine the presidential nominee, strategists in both camps admit frankly that this consideration enters their minds.

A Knowland selection would give political balance and reinforcement to the ticket, no matter who heads it. Here is how party statisticians figure it from the standpoint of politics rather than personalities:

CHANCE — If Eisenhower becomes the Republican offering, it is believed that he has a good chance of sweeping the north-eastern section. The forecasters allocate to him almost all the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland.

But he might run poorly in the Middle West, where his views on foreign affairs are not too popular. Nor has he yet formulated a farm policy that matches the Truman-Brannan scheme in vote-getting power.

Senator Taft has promised to support Ike, if the latter necks him out. But the Ohioan's friends and organization workers may not overexert themselves on election day. They didn't ring doorbells or haul voters to the polls for Tom Dewey.

ASSET — Under such circumstances, Eisenhower might have to compensate for these losses of electoral votes beyond the Rockies—the coastal and mountain states. Nobody could do him more good there than Knowland, in the smart politicians' opinion.

The Oakland man has another asset peculiarly essential to an Eisenhower slate. As a Californian, he has taken a deep interest in the crisis in the Far East, where Ike seems to have a blind spot. The senator advocates a more aggressive and constructive action in the Orient, and is not unsympathetic to the MacArthur viewpoint.

Finally, the Californian is under no obligation not to identify the Democrats regarded as responsible for the blunders at Yalta, Teheran, Potsdam and in Korea. Eisenhower may carry his reluctance to name names too far.

CONTRIBUTION — Oddly, Knowland's possible contribution can help Taft, if he should lead the GOP parade.

As the nominee, Taft would admittedly be weakest in the internationally minded East. His non-compulsory FEPC attitude and his Taft-Hartley sponsorship would cut into his city vote in New England, New York, Pennsylvania, possibly New Jersey.

But he should run well in the Middle West and in the farm states, many of which went for Truman in 1948. Popular polls have shown him far ahead of Ike in most of this territory.

But he would need the so-called Knowland bloc of electoral votes for victory. With the addition of several GOP strongholds elsewhere, the combination might be enough to land him in the White House.

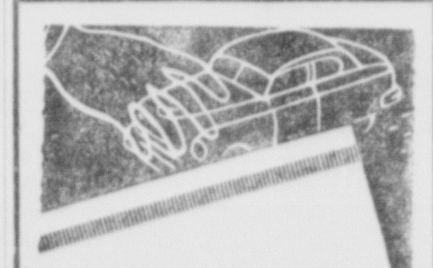

RUNNING-MATES — Finally, there are no towering eastern figures for second place on the GOP slate.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Governor Driscoll of New Jersey have been mentioned but they have become involved too deeply, personally and politically, in the Bob-and-Ike feud.

Moreover, although Ike deliberately emphasizes his Kansas background, he will probably be regarded as the eastern wing's product. Lodge and Driscoll do not fit into that picture. It is extremely doubtful if Taft would accept such avowed and vocal enemies as running-mates.

Miss Barbara Ann Ward Is Bride Of Mr. Towers

Ceremony Read In Methodist Church

Stately simplicity marked the wedding ceremony of Miss Barbara Ann Ward and George Towers, which was performed at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in the First Methodist church, by the Rev. Robert Weaver.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. George Timmons of Columbus and the late Benjamin J. Ward, and Mr. Towers is the son of Mrs. O. J. Towers of 321 East Union street, and the late Dr. Towers.

For her wedding the bride was dressed in a white ballerina length gown made with a nylon lace bodice and a nylon marquisette skirt. The bodice featured a small pointed collar and tiny cap sleeves. Her finger-tip length veil was held in place by a white half-hat trimmed in lilies-of-the-valley. She wore white accessories and carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid.

Miss Marilyn Schumm served as maid-of-honor and her ballerina length gown was fashioned of pale blue sheer nylon, trimmed in satin. She wore single pearl earrings, the gift of the bride, and carried an orchid.

Robert R. Young of Circleville was the best man and James Lytle served as usher.

A selection of organ music was played by Mrs. Betty Goodman, preceding the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Timmons chose a navy blue nylon dotted Swiss dress. Her corsage was of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a silk print dress and a corsage of white carnations.

When the couple left for their wedding trip in the East, the new Mrs. Towers was wearing a beige dress with white accessories and her bridal orchid.

The bride was graduated from Circleville high school. Mr. Towers was graduated from Circleville high school and Ohio State university, where he became a member of the Acacia fraternity. He is employed in the research department of the Omar Baking Company in Columbus.

Following their wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Beverly Manor on East Broad street in Columbus.

Wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Towers of Arlington, Va., Mr. and Mrs. William Ross and C. W. Clelland of Columbus, Mrs. Forrest Storts and Miss Jody Storts of Circleville.

2 From Here To See GOP Pick Nominee

Locals Predict Taft To Take Nomination

Circleville will have at least two representatives on hand Monday when the curtain goes up at Chicago on the Republican national convention.

William Ammer, a member of the state's attorney general staff, left for the convention city last week. Dr. G. D. Phillips will leave here Saturday to serve as assistant sergeant at arms.

Commenting on possibilities at the historic gathering, Dr. Phillips said:

"I'm a Taft man, of course, and I don't expect a deadlock with the Eisenhower forces. I feel the Senator has been getting stronger and stronger every day nationally—and for good reason."

"WHAT STEPS would be likely in the event of a Taft-like deadlock? I'm not in position to say, but I do have a firm conviction on one point.

"I feel that no matter what happens at the convention, there will be no split in the Republican party. "I'm fully confident the Republicans are too smart to let that happen, especially with the splendid opportunity before them."

Ray Davis, chairman of the Republican executive committee of Pickaway County, said he anticipates a Taft victory on the early ballots.

"Not on the first one, perhaps," he said, "but I look for it sometime during the first five. On the other hand, that's only a guess—and almost anything can happen in Chicago."

"The public knows we're committed to Taft until released, and then we're committed to General MacArthur until released. But after that—well, it's anybody's guess."

Ohio Peachless Wedge Found By Fruit Men

COLUMBUS, July 1.—Did you ever hear of the peachless wedge? Well, Ohio has it this year.

The wedge is the shape of the area in Ohio this year where the peach crop is virtually non-existent.

The way C. W. Ellenwood, secretary of the Ohio State Horticultural Society, reports it:

"Take a wedge with the base along the Ohio-Indiana line beginning 15 miles south of Dayton and running north 100 miles, then tapering off to a point over in Licking County. Within the wedge there are very few peaches."

Ellenwood conducted a survey for the society among Ohio's fruit

Ashville All Set For Big 1952 Independence Day Celebration

A last-minute check-up by committee chairman Monday evening showed everything in readiness for the 22nd annual Independence Day Celebration in Ashville Community Park Wednesday through Friday.

The event is sponsored by Ashville Community Club, which uses profits derived from the celebration for community work, which, in recent months, has included baseball bleachers in the park, wood-burning and charcoal ovens, Halloween and Christmas parades and celebrations and the helping of many worth-while organizations. Ashville Women's Civic Club also cooperates in staging the celebration.

Official opening of this year's celebration will be a "Little Miss July Fourth" parade and contest at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. Following the parade, contestants will be judged in the park shelter house and prizes awarded the winner and her attendants.

The contest is restricted to girls from age three through the second grade of school. Some 20 entries growers. Trees are loaded outside the peachless wedge and he predicted an overall crop of 65 to 80 per cent of normal.

Winter damage, said Ellenwood, accounts for the peachless wedge.

The potential apple output, said Ellenwood, looks to be somewhat reduced. Many things contributed to this outlook—fall freeze, blossom blight among other things.

Ellenwood figured the 1952 apple harvest out to be around 2,950,000 bushels.

Last year's apple output totaled 4½ million bushels.

Keep this Sacred Privilege...

God made the world, and then He made the people in it and gave them certain rights. Men set up governments to secure and keep the rights their Creator gave them.

In some countries, governments crush the right to worship God . . . lock religion out. When that's gone, the people cease to insist on their rights, or even to know they have those rights. That's what godless governments want.

When you think about it, the greatest liberty the U. S. A. gives us is the liberty to learn about God and worship according to the dictates of our hearts . . . and put Him before all else. We can lift our eyes or bow our heads privately or in public, and nobody is going to interfere. We can hear our children's bedside prayers without fear that our kind of government is going to outlaw the God we have taught them about.

The only way to keep this sacred privilege is to keep out the forms of government which some men are trying to force upon us. It is our responsibility to protect our heritage of religious freedom.

"Every man, conducting himself as a good citizen and being accountable to God alone for his religious opinions, ought to be protected in worshipping the Deity according to the dictates of his own conscience."

Powder Puff Derby Due To Start Friday

85 Women Booked To Make 2,700-Mile Trip Across Nation

LOS ANGELES, July 1—(AP)—Fifty small airplanes with only women aboard are converging on Southern California like swallows bound for Capistrano.

The 85 pilots and co-pilots in the 50 light planes include stenographers, school girls, flight instructors and housewives and the wife of one congressman.

They are entries in the annual All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race, sixth and largest of its kind. Most of them from if you call it a powder puff derby.

The race starts at Santa Ana, Calif., at 10 a. m. Friday.

Barring unfavorable weather along the 2,700-mile route, the deadline for crossing the finish line at Teterboro, N. J., is 5 p. m. Wednesday, July 3. A number of stops, including overnight halts, are made along the way.

THE FIRST FIVE to place will share in a purse of $1,750. Several trophies also will be awarded, and many cities along the route are offering "leg prizes"—cash for winning the segment of the race ending at that particular city.

But prize-money and the glory of winning aren't the real reasons for the annual contest, says Anne Rombeau, of Sepulveda, Calif., now in her third year as trail blazer for the race.

"The race has a serious mission," she says.

"Women played a big part in aviation during the last war, yet today there is no way for them to keep a finger in flying except at their own expense.

Many of the girls are on active reserve status with the Air Force, and yet they are not allowed to fly as part of the reserve.

"We are trying to help make it possible for these girls to keep in training."

As trail blazer, Miss Rombeau flies into all the major cities on the race route and makes arrangements for housing and refueling and other accommodations for the contestants who might land there. During the war she conducted a navy flight school at Prescott, Ariz.

THE CONTEST is limited to stock aircraft of 300 horsepower or less, and flying will be during daylight hours and under visual flight rules only.

A "par speed," based on performance figures provided by the manufacturer, has been established for each model of plane.

Par for the slowest plane in the race, the Piper Vagabond, is 91 mph, for example, and for the fastest plane, the Bellanca Crusiermaster, 170 mph.

The winner will be the plane with the highest average ground speed above its par.

The race is conducted by the Ninety-Nines, Inc., an international organization of licensed women pilots founded in 1929 by Amelia Earhart. The name came from the fact that there were 99 charter members.

Invention of the tuning fork is attributed to John Shore, George Frederick Handel's famous trumpeter.

GOP Governors Gloomy About Poll Prospects

HOUSTON, July 1—(AP)—Gloomy Republican governors Monday forecast difficulties for their party in November as Democrats talked of civil rights issues which might let them win the presidency.

Forecasts that the Republicans would be the underdogs in the general election came from two supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey and Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin. They agreed the GOP nominee would be the outsider in the betting, whether he is Eisenhower or Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

On the other hand, Democratic executives gathered for the annual Governors Conference here sounded a back-thumping note of confidence that they will win with any nominee they can agree upon at their Chicago convention.

Many of them, however, were waiting for a scheduled news conference answer by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois to the often-repeated question of what he might do about a presidential draft movement.

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, firebrand of the Southern Democratic battle against President Truman's civil rights program, could supply some information on Stevenson's chances.

He would oppose—possibly to the extent of an open revolt—any nominee who embraced a platform plank calling for action by Congress on such controversial issues as creation of a Fair Employment Practices Commission with powers to enforce its rulings against job discrimination.

Luke Easter Farmed Out To Indianapolis

CLEVELAND, July 1.—(P)—Luke Easter, such a big guy fans looked for him to homer every time he comes up, has left the Cleveland Indians for their minor league farm club at Indianapolis.

The Tribe optioned Easter, their regular first baseman of the last three seasons, to Indianapolis Monday night on 24-hour recall. In return they bought Dave Pope, 27-year-old Indianapolis outfielder.

Whether Luke comes back to the majors depends on his success against a American Association pitching in overcoming a slump that dropped his batting average to .208 and also made his fielding unsteady.

Both Manager Al Lopez and General Manager Hank Greenberg said they thought the six-foot-four, 235-pound slugger would return. Luke, more than any other Indian, had been mentioned as the key to the Indians' 1952 pennant chances. Neither Lopez nor Greenberg have given up hope he will provide some long-ball hitting in the stretch drive.

Lopez thinks Easter may return before the month is out. He said: "If Luke has not regained his batting form at the end of three weeks, then he never will. Personally, I think that he will snap back and return to this club to help us a lot."

U.S. Women Seek Crown At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, July 1.—(P)—Defending Champion Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., leads a five-strong American contingent into the women's quarter-finals of the All-England lawn tennis championships Tuesday with the U. S. men's hopes hanging on one man—little Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Cal.

Flam was the only American to survive Monday's quarter-final play in the men's division, where both Defending Champion Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, ranked No. 1 in the U. S., were eliminated.

Flam's next test—a semifinal match with Jaroslav Drobny, the self-exiled Czech, now playing out of Egypt—comes Wednesday when top-seeded Frank Sedgman meets Mervyn Rose in an All-Australian semifinal.

The girls get to work Tuesday, paring down the field to four. At least one of the Americans must fall because Miss Hart faces Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif., in one quarter-final test.

Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., the American champion, meets Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, Shirley Fry of Akron, O., plays Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith of Britain and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills takes on Mrs. Jean Rinkel-Quertier of Britain.

Carolina Filly Wins Coaching Club Laurels

GOSHEN, N. Y., July 1.—(P)—Making her first start of the year, the North Carolina-owned Crystal Hanover won the $18,485 Coaching Club Trotting Oaks Monday as Historic Track opened its week-long Grand Circuit meeting.

Crystal Hanover, owned by D. R. Johnston, P. J. Baugh and T. W. Church Jr. of Charlotte, N. C., was one of several fillies in the race eligible for the $90,000 Hambleton here Aug. 6.

Driven by Henry Myott, Crystal Hanover won the second elimination heat and then stood off My Precious, Castleton Farm, Lexington, Ky., in the final mile whirl. My Precious took the first elimination.

The fastest time of the year for a two-year-old filly was set by Adios Anne in taking the second elimination heat of the $11,394 Debutante Stakes for pacing fillies, a 2:07 4/5 mile.

But the final heat went to Precious Hal, from the Two Gait farm, Indianapolis.

Bill Cane's My Lady, Goshen, took the $10,608 Ladyship Stakes with Silent Waters, Walter T. Candler, Decatur, Ga., second. The $11,377 Acorn Stakes was won by Live by Lady, Gay Acres Stable, Wooster, Ohio.

3 Hurlers Due To Lose 20 Games In '52

Friend And Dickson
Have Dubious Honor
For Lowly Pirates

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—(P)—Bob Friend and Murrey Dickson appear destined to become the first Pittsburgh pitchers to lose 20 games in one season while Art Houtteman is well on his way to absorbing the most defeats in Detroit's American League history.

Each of the trio has dropped 11 decisions to gain the dubious distinction of being the "losingest" pitchers in the majors.

Friend and Houtteman lost their 11th game Monday and their seventh in a row. Dickson lost his 11th last Saturday.

All are toiling for last-place outfits.

Since Detroit has played 68 games, Houtteman stands to lose 25 this year unless he undergoes a complete reversal of form or his luck changes. At the same rate, Friend and Dickson should lose 24 games since Pittsburgh has played 71 of its 134 games.

NO PITTSBURGH pitcher of modern times has lost 20 games. Only four Detroit pitchers ever lost 20 or more games in a single season.

Since 1945 only one pitcher in each league lost as many as 20 games. Alex Kellner of the Philadelphia Athletics and Bob Rush of the Chicago Cubs lost that many in 1950.

In sharp contrast, Sal Maglie of the New York Giants and Gerry Staley of the St. Louis Cardinals advanced another step toward their 20-game victory goal Monday.

Maglie notched his 11th triumph despite a shoddy performance as the Giants swept both ends of a doubleheader from the Boston Braves, 8-7, and 4-0. Staley registered his 10th success in the Cardinals' 7-4 win over Cincinnati.

Both big league pace-setters suffered surprising defeats as rookie Dick Brodowski pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Yankees in New York and veteran Karl Drews hurled the Philadelphia Phils to a 4-0 win over the Dodgers in Brooklyn.

The White Sox, behind veteran Joe Dobson's five - hit pitching, thrashed Houtteman and the Tigers 7-2. Washington moved up a notch into fourth place, four games behind the Yankees, with a 6-2 decision over the Athletics. Frank Shea registered his sixth win in against two defeats with a neat seven-hitter.

The Chicago Cubs set back Friend and the Pirates, 3-4, as shortstop Roy Smalley batted in all the winners' runs with a double and homer.

CLEVELAND and the St. Louis Browns were idle, causing the Indians to drop into fifth place as the Browns remained in the sixth slot.

Brodowski, a 19-year-old right-hander who was pitching Class D ball a year ago, stopped the Yankees with four hits as the Red Sox won their first game of the season at Yankee Stadium. They had dropped eight in a row there since last Sept. 5.

Drews handcuffed the Dodgers with five hits as he recorded his fourth victory. Richie Ashburn scored three of Philadelphia's runs off Carl Erskine and catcher Smoke Burgess drove him in each time.

Maglie was tagged for 11 hits and needed help from Dave Koslo in the eighth inning as he nearly blew a early 8-2 lead provided by Hank Thompson's two successive homeruns.

Blackwell Still A Rare Mystery

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—(P)—The Blackwell mystery, also known as the case of the erratic arm, deepened Monday night.

Even Blackwell, the Cincinnati pitcher who once won 15 games in a row, couldn't last through the second inning against the St. Louis Cardinals and was charged with his ninth defeat of the season.

The 7-3 defeat had evil foreshadowing for the Reds. It dropped them into sixth place, 18 games off the pace.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—That big blaze in Chicago, a fire in the Republican Party, will stay hot all week even though sometimes obscured by fog from the politicians.

The struggle there between the Taft and Eisenhower forces to seat contested delegates at the convention which opens Monday may wreck the party's election chances if the politicians make a spectacle of themselves.

The outcome of the struggle this week may mean the party nomination or loss of it for Gen. Eisenhower or Sen. Taft at the convention next week.

Before the fog sets in—claims, counterclaims, accusations—this is a brief summary of what makes the Chicago fire blaze:

The delegates finally seated at the convention will vote on the party's candidate for President. But there's a dispute between the Taft and Eisenhower people over 72 delegates of the total of 1,206.

If (except for the 72 in dispute) Taft and Eisenhower go into the convention fairly close, having picked up more uncontested delegates meanwhile, those 72 contested ones might mean the difference between win or lose.

TUESDAY THE Republican National Committee, or a subcommittee, began hearing both sides. The national committee may decide by Thursday night when delegates should be seated when the convention opens Monday.

Taft has offered to compromise on the disputed delegates. The Eisenhower people say they will not compromise since the national committee is dominated by Taft.

Taft says they'd rather have the "issue" than the delegates. Their argument is: Why should we compromise about our delegates, who were rightfully chosen, when Taft's weren't?

Say, for example, the national committee decides to let those disputed Taft delegates be seated. That doesn't settle the matter. The general's aides can appeal to the convention's credentials committee.

If that committee should turn them down, letting the Taft disputes keep their seats, that still isn't the last word. The Eisenhower people can appeal to the convention as a whole.

City Uproots Marijuana Crop

NEW YORK.—Sanitation Department crews recently uprooted 25 pounds of marijuana growing in a vacant lot in the Bronx.

Authorities said growth of the weed in the city is encouraged by birds spreading the seed, or by criminals deliberately planting it in out-of-the-way places for an illegal harvest.

A pound of marijuana, from which about 100 cigarettes are made, will bring more than $100 on the illegal market.

committee in trying to discover the cause of the disaster there and in Korea.

In fact, he has gone to the opposite extreme. Like the Washington correspondent of the London "Economist," the President has turned his back on everyone who sought to do anything constructive in the Far East.

He had General Albert C. Wedemeyer taken out of a field in which he was expert. Wedemeyer was so abused that he retired from his career in the Army. Truman dismissed General Douglas MacArthur, who had worked in the Far East longer than any other army officer and whose testimony before the Russell Committee has been borne out by subsequent events.

The President has nicknamed friends of China, the "China lobby," and has persecuted individuals whom he designates as such, calling them liars.

It is a puzzling attitude, particularly as he must know from FBI reports, if from no other source, that the Soviet conspiracy is extraordinarily active in this country now as it has been throughout his Administration.

The atom bomb and other military secrets were stolen, and since he has been President, Alger Hiss, his red-herring, has been convicted after two public trials and the verdict has been upheld by the Supreme Court.

It is an astonishing psychology—that of the President. He must dislike those who do disservice to America; yet he will not cooperate with the very Congressional committees that can establish the facts.

Home Activity Seen Holding Real Hazards

Nine Special Dangers Listed By Dr. Blackburn

Summertime traffic and all other phases of outdoor activity carry dangers for the careless, but Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County health commissioner, points out many of the worst accidents happen at home.

Worthwhile precautions for the household range in wide variety—from the use of a non-skid mat in the bath tub to caution against loose screens which could give way under a child's pressure—but Dr. Blackburn centered his warning on nine important points as follows:

1. Bare wires, loose connections, defective switches or lamp cords, or defective appliances can cause fatal shock, burns and fires.
2. Gas burners should be cleaned and adjusted so they produce a blue flame. Otherwise they may give off the fatal odorless gas, carbon monoxide. All gas stoves should be properly vented.

3. ALL LIQUIDS such as varnish, gasoline, and oil should be kept in closed metal containers and stored in a safe place.
4. Poisons such as lye, iodine, bleach, arsenic, carbolic acid, DDT and the like should be locked and kept away from children—either your own or those who come with visitors.

5. Excessively waxed floors can cause injurious falls.
6. All chairs should be checked periodically for sturdiness. Loose rungs or otherwise rickety chairs may also cause bad falls.

7. Throw rugs should be made skid proof. Rubber bases are available for them.
8. All stair carpeting should be made secure and free of holes. Articles should not be stored on stairways—or even left there for a short time.

9. Electrical appliances should be handled with special care in the bathroom or basement where a person may come into contact with them while in the tub or washing, or while standing on a wet floor. Fatal shocks may result.

House To Study Mine Safety Bill

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A bill giving the government more say in enforcing mine safety regulations is considered certain of getting House action before the week ends.

The House Rules Committee decides Tuesday whether to send the bill—strongly backed by organized labor—to the floor for a vote. But even if the committee does not approve such action, Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass.) said the measure would be taken up Wednesday.

U.S. To Stay In Austria

VIENNA, July 1.—U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson says American troops will remain in occupied Austria until its independence is assured.

He blamed Russia for the failure of the Big Four to write a treaty of independence. To a news conference of Austrian and Allied newsmen, he said: "Make no mistake about it. Of the four powers in Austria, three want to go home."

Parent's Ailment Poses Many Problems For Loving Children

By HAL ROYLE

DENVER — (P)—The problem of a tremendous number of intellectual children is how to deal bravely with a parent's ailment.

The father and the mother do their best for the children they love. But they leave no pattern of comfort behind if death should suddenly grab them.

One of the most common diseases of the late middle age is the stroke—or the heart attack.

One stills the brain—at least partly. The other stills the heart pump, the valve of life.

The parent usually doesn't know of his adventure into mystery because his children do not tell him the nature of his ailment. Perhaps the children themselves do not know.

Every family must have a man like Jim, a man at the peak of his powers who is suddenly stricken and becomes helpless, so far as the use of his muscles is concerned.

The great hidden drama in many American families is what they do with a man who suffers a stroke. Usually the women of the family begin to make him their prisoner by babying him.

That is Jim's problem. He must go ahead inflicting his views and personality on a world in which he cannot run and play—but in which he has some responsibility.

Such is the twilight goal of power for many men and women who widdid responsibility, and who have suffered a stroke.

A stroke is an interior lightning flash that weakens one or the other side of the human body from a muscular viewpoint and makes the weak side emotionally dependent on the side that is not handicapped.

In other words, if your mother-in-law suffers a stroke, you should massage her stricken hand and make her know you love her. The extremities of those who are so afflicted become extremely sensitive. Only the calming hand of love can soothe them in their distress and doubt.

The main thing about a person who has had a stroke is that he has lost communication with his ordinary world. He knows that better than you do. To help him you have to help him keep in touch with the life he has known before. You have to escort him over the ridge of difference. You have to build a bridge of love between what he was and what he must be, no matter what he was before.

The thing I always remember about people who had strokes is that they appreciate it if you understand them.

For saving Vienna from the invading Turks in 1683, George Kolchitsky received several hundred sacks of coffee abandoned by the enemy.

Writ Against Remington Stands

NEW YORK, July 1.—A federal judge has refused to throw out the perjury indictments against William W. Remington, former government economist.

Remington, 35, was convicted last year of lying when he told a federal grand jury he never had been a Communist Party member. But the U. S. Court of Appeals reversed the verdict.

Since then, a new indictment has been returned on the basis of his testimony in the first trial.

Monday Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey ruled that the indictments stand.

Air Reservists To Get Planes

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The Air Force said Tuesday it will funnel about 250 airplanes—outmoded fighters, trainers and troop carriers—into the re-establishment of its reserve training program this year.

The Air Force reserve training program was discontinued after the outbreak of the Korean war and stripped of its planes and men. A spokesman for the Continental Air Command said 22 reserve training centers will be set up, starting this month.

Circleville's Legion Drum Corps Ready For Double Duty On Friday

Circleville's American Legion drum and bugle corps is all set for a double performance July 4th.

The 24-piece outfit, with its four-man color guard and Drum Major Delores Elsea, will have prominent place in the holiday parade in Ashville Friday morning and then leave by bus for evening competition in Mansfield.

Mansfield's American Legion post will sponsor competition with prizes totaling $1,500. The Mansfield contest is being held for the first time this year.

Competing along with Circleville's corps will be drum and bugle units from Elyria, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Bellefontaine.

ELYRIA TURNED out a 60-member outfit in winning the state championship last year but is expected to enter a smaller group at Mansfield.

First prize at Mansfield will be $500, with $400 for second and $300 for third place.

For Circleville's corps, judged third best in Ohio State Fair competition last year, the Mansfield event will be its first competition in 1952 and its third since the outfit was organized in 1948.

The local corps won a total of $400 in competition last year at the state Legion convention and Ohio State Fair.

The Mansfield event is designed to increase more general interest in drum and bugle corps organizations.

Clifford Kerns is music director of Circleville's unit. Truman Eberly is drill director and Carl Radcliff is corps commander.
